HARDING ACTS TO END THE COAL DEADLOCK; RAIL SHOPS UNDER GUARD, TRY TO BREAK STRIKE

Harding Submits Definite Proposal To Miners, Operators

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 10.—(By the Associated Press)—President Harding submitted to the bituminous and anthracite operators and miners gathered here in conference a proposal that the miners return to work at the wage scale in existence when work was suspended on April 1, and continue to work on that scale until August 10, meanwhile an arbitration board being appointed to negotiate a new wage scale.

The commission as outlined by the president would consist of three members appointed by the United Mine Workers of America, three appointed by the operators and five representatives of the public named by the president. The operators and miners were understood to have been asked to give their response to the proposal by tonight.

The arbitration commission would be expected to have its award ready by August 10, but if unable to arrange a new scale by that date the scale which expired April 1, would be continued from August 10 to March 1, 1933.

Williams Opens Active Campaign For Nomination

COLUMBUS, O., July 10.—(By the Associated Press)—An active campaign will be begun today by Daniel W. Williams, Jackson editor, for the Republican nomination for governor. He will tour Jackson, his home county, and then start a trip through the western part of the state.

"The voters of Ohio are going to do what the voters in Iowa and North Dakota did, and I am going to be nominated," said Mr. Williams. "The people do not want any pussyfooting, but they do want a firm, determined, sane enforcement of the laws and security for all."

In clearing up Ohio, whose governor, he asserts, has powers greater than any other officer in America, except the president, Mr. Williams promises not to "damage the furniture or drive the people from the boarding house."

Republican Movement Collapsing

LONDON, July 10.—(By the Associated Press)—Latest reports from Ireland indicate that the Republican movement is collapsing everywhere except in the Cork district. Eamon DeValera is rumored to have joined his supporters there, but various other stories as to his whereabouts are in circulation, one to the effect that he still is in the vicinity of Dublin and plans to attend the funeral of Charles Burgess there today, in which case it is said his arrest may be expected.

The supposition that the Republican leader would be arrested upon his appearance in Dublin, is scouted in other quarters where it is suggested the provisional government prefers that he remain at liberty, believing his capture would be rather an embarrassment than otherwise.

Picnickers Killed On Trestle

CLEVELAND, O., July 10.—(By the Associated Press)—Four persons are dead and another probably fatally injured today as the result of being struck by interurban trolley cars on a trestle over which they were returning from a picnic at Bay Village, 15 miles west of here, late last night. Three of the victims were brothers and sisters, while the fourth and the injured are sisters. The dead are:

Manuel Moskovitz, 29.
Joan Moskovitz, 22.
Elizabeth Moskovitz, 16.
Irene Vadasz, 22.
Olga Vadasz, 20, has a fractured skull and is not expected to live.

The party was returning from a picnic at Cuyahoga Park. Because of a crowd waiting for the Lake Shore electric interurban car, they decided to walk half a mile to the next stop in order to get a seat. Between the two stops is a trestle two hundred feet long, which they were warned not to cross.

Only one of the party of six heeded the advice. She was a younger sister of the Moskovitzs. The others started over. When about half way across an east bound car approached. In getting out of its way, they walked into the path of another car going in the opposite direction and were knocked into a gulley forty feet below, as the younger Moskovitz, girl looked on.

Two of the victims were still breathing when Carl Geyer, marshal of Dover, one of the first to arrive at the scene of the accident, reached them, but one of these died while being brought to Cleveland in the east bound interurban. The other three were horribly mangled and torn and probably were instantly killed, Geyer said.

Auto Party Fights Blizzard On Yellow Stone Park Mountain

BOZEMAN, MONT., July 10.—(By the Associated Press)—With their faces bronzed, and almost blistered from their experiences in facing the biting winds of the blizzard that Saturday swept over the mountain peaks of Yellowstone National Park, Mrs. Percy Rockefeller and the party that accompanied her, told of their experiences. They arrived in Bozeman last night.

"It was the most thrilling experience and one of the most delightful, too, that I have ever known," said Mrs. Rockefeller, as she greeted a representative of the Associated Press on her arrival here.

"When we left the lower station of Yellowstone canyon, the sun was shining, and it was a most beautiful day. We were in a big open touring car, and as we neared the top of Mount Washburn the snow began to fall and the wind began to blow a regular gale.

"By the time we reached the top, the mercury had fallen and the wind was biting cold, while the snow fell in a regular blinding sheet. At the top of Mount Washburn is a little log cabin in which we took refuge. All of our party turned in and secured some log wood and some boards. In

"It seemed odd to all of us to be caught in such a cold, bitter snow storm in the very middle of July, but we really enjoyed every minute of it."

LONDON, July 10.—(By the Associated Press)—Germany's financial crisis continues to be a subject of paramount concern in the British press, which today discusses the question exhaustively, stressing the danger confronting the whole of Europe. According to the Daily Telegraph's diplomatic expert, a committee of the cabinet is considering the situation, which, it is understood, comes before the full cabinet tomorrow.

The Daily Mail's political correspondent says British representatives of international financial houses are sending demands of extreme urgency to the British government that it take steps to help Germany. Efforts are being made to secure a loan for Germany, he declares. The editorial comment follows the usual two lines, one dictated by an ingrained distrust and suspicion of Germany and the other tinged with the view that France is guilty of rapacious folly in insisting upon enforcement of the white Versailles treaty.

Daugherty Confers With Harding On Rail Strike

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 10.—(By the Associated Press)—The government through appointment of deputy United States marshals will make sure that law and order are preserved especially and life protected, transportation of the mails continued and interstate commerce not interrupted, despite the strike of railroad shopmen, Attorney General Daugherty announced today, after a conference with President Harding.

The attorney general announced that he had within the last few days authorized the appointment of a number of deputy marshals in the midwest, where disorders arising from the strike have occurred, and he added that "this police will be continued wherever justified and required."

CHICAGO, July 10.—(By the Associated Press)—Under the protection of state troops and federal marshals, railroad shops at several troublesome points began determined efforts today to break the railway shopmen's strike, while the ranks of the strikers apparently held solidly and peace overtures were still unseen.

Notified by the Chicago and Alton that it intended to reopen the Bloomington, Illinois, shops, Mayor E. E. Jones and Sheriff J. E. Morrison sent new appeals for troops from Springfield and Danville, Ill., were ordered to enroute today. Three companies now patrolling the Illinois Central yards at Clinton, Ill., may be moved to Danville. Both places were quiet today, however, with traffic at the terminals near a standstill.

Kansas national guardsmen stood guard in a drizzling rain, while 150 men went to work at the Missouri, Kansas and Texas shops in Parsons, Kansas. There was no trouble.

Deputy United States marshals took charge of the Burlington shops at Aurora, Ill., while a cordon of 1,800 strikers formed a slow moving circle around the shops. The Burlington obtained an injunction to restrain strikers from interfering with operation of the road in Nebraska after obtaining similar writs Saturday in Iowa and Illinois.

Possible interference by the federal government in Washington was seen in a morning conference between Attorney General Daugherty and Alfred P. Thom, general counsel for the Association of Railway Executives, after which the attorney general immediately went to the White House.

Reported interference with mail trains on the Wabash was being investigated by the postoffice department, meanwhile.

DISCONTINUE 60 TRAINS
ST. LOUIS, MO., July 10.—(By the Associated Press)—Discontinuance of sixty local and mixed passenger and freight trains on the Missouri-Pacific system, was announced here today. The announcement stated the action was taken because of increases in coal prices, due to the miners' strike. The Wabash announced it probably would discontinue a number of locals for the same reason. The Missouri, Kansas and Texas discontinued 42 locals Saturday because of the shopmen's strike.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 10.—(By the Associated Press)—Attorney General Daugherty on his return to Washington this morning, after a week's absence in Ohio, immediately took up consideration of the railroad strike with Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the Association of Railway Executives.

Attorney General Daugherty, after a conference with Mr. Thom lasting more than an hour and a half, left the department of justice for the White House to see President Harding.

Mr. Thom remained at the department in conference with assistant to the Attorney General Goff. While the conference, between the attorney general and Mr. Thom was in progress, the post office department received an appeal for government protection from J. E. Tausig, president of the Wabash Railway, who filed an attack on the road's shops at Moberly, Missouri, Saturday night, during which he said strikers stopped a Kansas City-Detroit mail train, cut the air hose, threw rocks through the windows and—forcibly took eighteen employees from the train.

Gallipolis District Mines To Open
POMEROY, O., July 10.—(By the Associated Press)—A crowd of union miners left here this morning in the direction of the mines at Cheshire, which were closed last Friday after the non-union miners at work had been threatened and which were scheduled to resume operation today under armed guards stationed about the properties by Sheriff Swanson, of Gallia county.

COLUMBUS, O., July 10.—(By the Associated Press)—With a peaceful week-end passed in the coal mining districts of the state, attention was turned today upon the Gallipolis mining area, where several mines closed last week were scheduled to resume operation under the protection of county officials, and to St. Clairsville, where a grand jury was to convene to consider the cases of thirteen men arrested in connection with the shooting of John Majors, strip mine employee, last week.

The situation at the mines near Gallipolis, most of which are located at Cheshire, was brought about last Friday when men alleged to have been union miners, were said to have threatened non-union employees with firearms and prevailed upon them to cease work. Sheriff Swanson, of Gallia county, swore in extra deputies and announced that they would be stationed at the mines today and that work would be resumed. Announcement was made from mine union officials at Pomerozy, nearby, that no threats had been made at the Cheshire mines.

CHICAGO, July 10.—(By the Associated Press)—The crucial state of the railway strike was reached today—the tenth since the shopmen's nation-wide walk-out.

Internal Feud Causes Trouble For Carnival At Huntington

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 10.—An order from Chief of Police M. H. Kiff Saturday night stopped the carnival "World of Mirth" from operating. The carnival, which had been in operation since the day before yesterday, was closed down by the police. The carnival was operated by Max "Whiter" Adams, a concession man, on a warrant sworn out before Magistrate A. A. Shy charging him with theft of $27 from Max Linderman and Larry Boyd owners of the carnival. Another was an attachment issued at the request of the same Adams for $26.15 claimed due him, and said by Magistrate Shy to be a "stunt" at the carnival. Yet another was the destruction, with no instrument, it is said, than an axe of candies and other stuffs used as "prizes" by Adams in the seven concessions which he claims were "thrown out" by carnival owners. Adams himself performed the Carrie Nation act, he said last night to "save his dough and paid-for supplies." Adams said that, a long standing feud at the bottom of the trouble. He gave bond for his appearance Monday on the larceny charge, scoffing at it.

"The house caught fire, and some damage, not serious, was done to the two upper rooms.

by Rafael Sabatini

BEGIN HERE TODAY

To escape hanging on the charge of sedition,

ANDRE-LOUIS MOREAU flees from his native town of Gavrilac and conceals his identity by joining a band of strolling players in which he makes a great success in the part of SCARAMOUCHE.

His flight has caused him to delay revenge on the great and powerful MARQUIS DE LA TOUR D'AZUR, who tricked Andre-Louis' dearest friend, PHILIPPE DE VILMORIN, into a duel and then killed him because he feared the idealist's "dangerous gift of eloquence."

Over the dead body of his friend, Andre-Louis swore to carry on the work of reforming the lot of the down-trodden peasants.

Scaramouche, as he is now called, falls in love with CLIMENE, daughter of

MONSIEUR RHET, the owner of the troupe. They become engaged and Andre-Louis has forgotten

ALINE DE KERCADOL, the friend of his childhood, who horrified him by listening to the suit of the Marquis. While walking with Clime-ne, he unexpectedly meets Aline.

GO ON WITH THE STORY (Continued From Our Last Issue)

Not for a second was Andre-Louis under any delusion as to the man's deliberate purpose, nor were those who stood near him, who made a belated and ineffectual attempt to close about him. He was grievously disappointed. It was not Chabrilane he had been expecting.

But if Chabrilane was the man appointed to deal with him, he would make the best of it.

"I think you are pushing against me, monsieur," he said, very civilly, and with elbow and shoulder he thrust M. de Chabrilane back into the rain.

Now, for all his shyness, his assiduous daily sword-practice had given Andre-Louis an arm of iron. Also he threw his weight into the thrust. His assailant recoiled backward a few steps, and then his hand struck a bank of timber set on the ground by some workmen that morning, and he sat down suddenly in the mud.

A roar of laughter rose from all who witnessed the fine gentleman's downfall. He rose, mud-spattered, in a fury, and in that fury sprang at Andre-Louis.

"You shall meet me for this!" he spluttered. "I shall kill you for it!"

"Whenever you please, monsieur. It is for you to say when it will suit your convenience to kill me. I think that was the intention you announced, was it not?" Andre-Louis was snarling itself.

"Tomorrow morning in the Bois

Perhaps you will bring a friend." "Certainly, monsieur. Tomorrow morning, then. I hope we shall have fair weather. I detest the rain."

Chabrilane looked at him almost with amazement. Andre-Louis smiled pleasantly.

"Don't let me detain you now, monsieur. We quite understand each other. I shall be in the Bois at nine o'clock tomorrow morning."

In the morning, when the Assembly met, his place was vacant, and so was M. de Chabrilane's. Gloom and resentment sat upon the members of the Third, and brought a more than usually acrid note into their debates. They disappeared of a more rashness of the new recruit to their body. Some openly condemned his lack of circumspection. Very few—and these only the little group in Le Chapelier's confidence—ever expected to see him again.

It was, therefore, as much in amazement as in relief that at a few minutes after two they saw him enter, calm, composed, and bland, and thread his way to his seat. The speaker occupying the rostrum at that moment—a member of the Privileged—stopped short to stare in incredulous dismay. Here was something that he could not understand at all. Then from somewhere a voice explained the phenomenon contemptuously.

"They haven't met. He has shirked it at the last moment."

It must be so, thought all: the mystification ceased, and men were settling back into their seats. But now, having reached his place, having heard the voice that explained the matter to the universal satisfaction, Andre-Louis paused before taking his seat. He felt it incumbent upon him to reveal the true fact.

"M. le President, my excuses for my late arrival. There was no necessity for this. It was a mere piece of theatricality, such as it was not, in Scaramouche's nature to forego. I have been detained by an engagement of pressing nature. I bring you also the excuses of M. de Chabrilane. He unfortunately will be permanently absent from this Assembly in future."

The silence was complete. Andre-Louis sat down.

CHAPTER VII

Nobody laughed now at Andre-Louis' flippancy. He did not intend that anybody should. He intended to be terrible; and he knew that the more flippant and casual his tone, the more terrible would be its effect. He produced exactly the effect he desired.

When the session rose, there were a dozen spadassins awaiting him in the vestibule.

He paused, seeking the man he expected, the man he was most anxious to oblige. But M. de La Tour d'Azur was absent from those eager ranks. This seemed to him odd. La Tour d'Azur was Chabrilane's cousin and closest friend. Surely he should have been among the first today.

To Andre-Louis, since La Tour was not one of that waiting pack, it mattered little on that Tuesday morning who should be the next. The next, as it happened, was the young Vicomte de La Motte-Rouau, one of the deadliest blades in the group.

On the Wednesday morning, coming again an hour or so late to the Assembly, Andre-Louis announced—in much the same terms as he had announced the death of Chabrilane—that M. de La Motte-Rouau would probably not disturb the harmony of the Assembly for some weeks to come, assuming that he were so fortunate as to recover ultimately from the effects of an unpleasant accident with which he had quite unexpectedly had the misfortune to meet that morning.

On Thursday he made an identical announcement with regard to the Vicomte de Blayon. On Friday he told them that he had been delayed by M. de Troisfontaines, and then turning to the members of the Club Dupont, and lengthening his face to a sympathetic gravity:

"I am glad to inform you, messieurs, that M. des Troisfontaines is in the hands of a very competent surgeon who hopes with care to restore him to your councils in a few weeks' time."

The Friday of that very busy week found the vestibule of the Menage empty of swordsmen when he made his leisurely and expectant progress with Le Chapelier.

"Have they had enough?" he wondered, addressing the question to Le Chapelier.

Out there under the awning a group of gentlemen stood in earnest talk. Scanning the group in a rapid glance, Andre-Louis perceived M. de La Tour d'Azur amongst them. He tightened his lips. He must afford no provocation. It must be for them to fasten their quarrels upon him.

Still, matters could not be left where they were, or he should have had all his pains for nothing. Carefully looking away from that group of gentlemen, he raised his voice so that his words must carry to their ears.

"It begins to look as if my fears of having to spend the remainder of my days in the Bois were idle."

Out of the corner of his eye he caught the stir his words created in that group. Pacing slowly along between his friends he resumed:

"But is it not remarkable that the assassin of Lagron should make no more against Lagron's successor? Or perhaps it is not remarkable. Perhaps the gentleman is prudent."

He had not long to wait. Came a quick step behind him, and a hand falling upon his shoulder, spun him violently round. He was brought face to face with M. de La Tour d'Azur, whose handsome countenance was calm and composed, but whose eyes reflected something of the sudden blaze of passion stirring in him.

"You spoke of me, I think," said the Marquis quietly.

"I spoke of an assassin—yes. But to these my friends," Andre-Louis' manner was no less quiet.

"You spoke loudly enough to be overheard," said the Marquis, answering the insinuation that he had been eavesdropping. "I perceive that it is your aim to be offensive."

"Oh, but you are mistaken, M. le Marquis. I have no wish to be offensive. But I resent having hands violently laid upon me, especially when they are hands that I cannot consider clean."

The elder man's eyelids flickered. Almost he caught himself admiring Andre-Louis' bearing. Rather, he feared that his own must suffer by comparison. Because of this, he enraged altogether, and lost control of himself. "You spoke of me as the assassin of Lagron. But how much better are you, M. the fencing-master, when you oppose yourself to men whose skill is as naturally inferior to your own?"

"I oppose myself to them!" said Andre-Louis on a tone of amused protest. "Ah, pardon, M. le Marquis; it is they who chose to oppose themselves to me—and so stupidly. They push me, they slap my face, they tread on my toes, they call me by unpleasant names. What if I am a fencing master? Must I on that account submit to every manner of ill-treatment from your bad-mannered friends?"

"Comedian!" the Marquis contemptuously apostrophized him. "Are these men who live by the sword like yourself?"

"On the contrary, M. le Marquis, I have found them men who died by the sword with astonishing ease. I cannot suppose that you desire to add yourself to their number."

"And why, if you please?" La Tour d'Azur's face had flamed scarlet before that sneer.

"Oh," Andre-Louis raised his eyebrows and pursed his lips, a man considering. He delivered himself slowly. "Because, monsieur, you prefer the easy victim—the Lagrons and Vilmorins of this world, mere sheep for your butchering. That is why."

And then the Marquis struck him. (Continued In Our Next Issue)

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

Prohibition in Africa might cause a flurry in matrimonial circles.

Among many of the tribes the suitor purchases a girl for a few bottles of brandy.

When the liquor has been delivered the father conducts the daughter to the hut of the purchaser. This constitutes the wedding ceremony.

The Sidney Daily News of Friday, June 30th, contained the following account of the wedding of Mr. Ralph Gerlach, son of A. A. Gerlach, a former resident of this city, and a nephew of Arthur J. Gerlach, of Fourth street, and Miss Mary Ann Gilbert:

At 8 o'clock last Tuesday morning, June 27th, Miss Mary Ann Gilbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Gilbert, of Terre Haute, Ind., was united in marriage to Mr. Ralph A. Gerlach, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Gerlach of Sidney, Ohio. The wedding occurred in the St. Joseph's church, which was beautifully decorated with a myriad of white flowers and ferns, while the altar was tastefully adorned with palms and lighted candles. Rev. Father Eugene C. Gerlach, brother of the groom, who is assistant pastor of St. Peter's church, Chillicothe, Ohio, performed the impressive, double ring ceremony of the Roman ritual and celebrated the nuptial mass, followed by benediction.

To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, rendered by violin and pipe organ, the bride party entered the church. During the ceremony the "Kyrie" from the Mass of Angels, Gounod's "Ave Maria," and other beautiful selections were played. The wedding march from Lohengrin was played as a recessional.

Preceding the bride and groom were their attendants, Miss Alberta Bauer, of Hollywood, Cal., a childhood friend of the bride, as maid of honor, Miss Rose Evelyn Wagner of Sidney, Ohio, a cousin of the groom, as bridesmaid, and Mr. Philip G. Wagner of Sidney, Ohio, also a cousin of the groom, as best man.

The bride was a girlish picture in a beautiful gown of white chiffon over bridal satin. She wore a becoming hat of white which, like the dress, was trimmed with sprays of gardenias, and carried an exquisite French bouquet of colored flowers. The maid of honor was lovely in a beaded gown of orchid crepe with a picture hat to match and carried a bouquet of pink roses and white daisies. The bridesmaid looked charming in a creation of pale blue tulle with white organdie and black velvet ribbons. She wore an effective hat of black and carried a bouquet of daisies.

Following the ceremony and congratulations a handsomely appointed wedding breakfast was served at the Hotel Deling. The table, where covers were laid for twenty guests, was centered with a large wedding cake. Flowers of various colors in attractive bouquets and lighted tapers in silver holders also furnished decorations for the table.

Besides the bridal party, covers were laid for the parents of the bride and groom, Rev. Gerlach and Francis Gerlach, brothers of the groom, Misses Mary Louise and Genevieve Gerlach, sisters of the groom, Mrs. Katherine Gilbert, Mrs. J. G. Gilbert, Mr. Milton Wagner of Sidney, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Weber of Chicago and Mr. Harlan O'Connor of Indianapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerlach left at noon for Chicago, from where they will take a lake trip. They will return to Sidney, where a newly furnished home awaits them.

Mrs. Gerlach is a graduate of St. Mary's of the Woods College, and Miss Wagner were roommates at college.

Mr. Gerlach is a graduate of the University of Dayton and is at present connected with the Monarch Machine Tool Co. of Sidney.

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

ONE day Mrs. Samantha Squirrel called at the office of Dr. Snuffles.

"Morning, Mrs. Squirrel," said that kindly fairy gentleman, "Nancy, set a chair for Mrs. Squirrel, please. Nick, stand her umbrella in the corner."

"You're all most kind," said Mrs. Squirrel. "And dear knows, I'm that worried a little kindness does me good."

"Worried," said Dr. Snuffles, putting on his glasses and looking her over. "That's a sign of nervousness. You need some honest tea."

"Nervous!" exclaimed Mrs. Squirrel. "Yes, I'm nervous, but it's not I that's needing medicine, it's Scamper, my son. He's ailing dreadfully."

"He won't eat a single bite. I've tried him with everything from acorn-soup to birch-bud pudding, but all he does is siffle his nose and turn away."

"M, h'm," said Dr. Snuffles. "A very serious case, indeed! I'll have to see the young gentleman."

"Bare" Be More Appropriate Russia is referred to as "The Bear" and it seems appropriate, because the "right" in "Bart" is so apparent. Greenville, Vermont.

"The old alarm clock, so necessary and usually so ugly, now comes in a case of pink or blue celluloid instead of the usual nickel one."

"Oh, doctor!" cried Mrs. Squirrel. "Pray don't. He's so upset whenever I mention you he nearly has a fit. It makes him feel worse."

"Well, then," said the fairy doctor kindly. "I'll have to give him about treatment. Don't worry any more. I'll cure him."

The next morning when Mrs. Squirrel was doing her marketing and the family was all away, Br. Scamper Squirrel still down the maple-tree where he "lived," looked stealthily in all directions, and then over to the underground pantry where all the goodies were kept—choice hickorynuts, dried chestnuts, and a lot of other things.

Then he proceeded to stuff out his sides.

Dr. Snuffles, the fairyman, walked over and took him by the ear. Just then Mrs. Squirrel returned.

"Madam," said Dr. Snuffles gravely, "your son is troubled with a disease called greediness. The best cure for it is not birch-buds but a birch rod!"

WHOM SHALL MOLLY MARRY?

BILLY BEGINS TO FIGHT BEN IN EARNEST

BY ZOE BECKLEY

Molly knew she was being cruel. Billy stood with his back toward her, fighting off her arms about him, felt like putting her arms about him with a "Never mind, poor kid, I won't put you to such a test."

But she steeled herself. Billy turned and Molly felt her own fate hung on his decision. His face was pale. He moistened his lips and spoke with an effort, wearily:

"I agree, Molly. What is it you want me to do?"

A smile of relief and a twinkle of fun lit her eyes.

"First," she answered, looking up into his troubled face, "I want you to promise me you will let nothing discourage you from fighting Ben Wheeler on this contract."

"Second, I want you to be very nice to me—and make no secret of it."

Molly glanced down demurely, but the response she expected did not come.

"I have already promised," said Billy, "to do whatever you ask."

Molly grew grave. She put a hand on his shoulder.

"I know what you're thinking, Billy. It must seem to you pure selfishness on my part—a 'heads-you-win-tails-I-lose' proposition. But just trust me, Billy—as I trust you."

Molly, he said, "Over there, at that other phone."

She took up the receiver.

"Hello, Wheeler? This is Barton. And Molly Wayne is listening. Are you absolutely decided about breaking that contract with me?"

"All the way to the Supreme Court if necessary, Barton," Wheeler's voice was like one of his steel chisels at work.

"Then we're all set. I'll tell my lawyers I want speedy action and plenty of it."

"Right, G'bye."

Billy Barton hung up his receiver with a jerk. Molly slowly realizing something relentless had been set in action.

"Well, that's that," said Billy with a mischievous grin. "And may the best man win."

"The best man," repeated Molly reflectively. "If Ben Wheeler's money wins for him will that make him the best man?"

She seemed asking the question of herself.

Molly sighed, picked up her handbag and turned to go.

"Remember, Billy, I'm for you in this fight, and I'm going to tell Ben Wheeler so."

"Don't be foolish, I'll mean your job."

"I'll mean more than that." And with a quick smile of parting she left the room.

Now is the best season of the year to lay the foundation for a beautiful complexion. Any girl or woman can beautify her complexion instantly by using Liska Cold Cream to cleanse the skin, and DER-WILLO (which comes in 2 shades, Flesh, White, Brunette) to beautify it. Rail Strike

Chicago state police were prepared for duty, while at some rail centers the roads relied upon federal injunctions and local authorities for protection in attempting to operate shops and maintain transportation into which increasing thousands were used. Stop and round house, whistles shrieked, and final notes of railroad whistles, signaling seniority and pension rights of strikers, who refused to return to the shops today. New acts of violence occurred at scattered points, and others were feared as the situation grew tenser.

Fervent Deadlock
The tenth day of the strike was marked by the apparent determination of both sides to stand by their positions taken at the onset and indications pointed to a fervent deadlock.

Railroads generally prepared to open their shops with what labor was available, accepting returned strikers and filling vacant jobs as far as possible with imported workers.

Troops Patrol Yards
State troops patrolled the Illinois Central yards and shops at Clinton, Ill., while at Bloomington, Ill., city and county officials, admitting the collapse of civil authority, awaited action by Lieutenant Governor Sterling on their appeal for troops.

A new appeal to the acting governor was made by Mayor Jones and Sheriff Morrison late last night.

Mobilized By Two States
National guard companies were mobilized in Missouri and Kansas. United States marshals increased their forces as they prepared to take charge of law enforcement at points in several states where situations were critical.

Marshal E. E. Fitzpatrick and a force of deputies went to Parsons, Kansas, where state troops also were ordered by Governor Allen.

Several deputies working under Marshal I. K. Pearshall, of Kansas City, were sent to Slater, Missouri, where strikers for several days had been in virtual control of the Chicago and Alton shops and the town.

Federal Marshals in Charge
Mobilization of special deputies under federal marshals was made for the additional protection of mails and property of railroads in the hands of receivers appointed by United States courts.

was made simple, strong and durable because men who were dairymen first, built it for dairymen. The Hinman was built to save time and does it. It was made to save labor and 50,000 Hinman milkers are now proving it. It was designed to cost little and save money and it does. Anything for the farm or home, we have it.

Officials of the Missouri Pacific announced the assignment of thirty passenger trains on the company's eastern division, adding that trains on other divisions probably would be discontinued at the same time.

All train service on the International and Great Northern from Georgetown to Round Rock, Texas, was suspended.

Memphis Needs Troops
Governor Taylor, of Tennessee, received appeals to send troops to Memphis to protect properties and employees of the Frisco lines.

Investigations by state authorities in Kansas of the wreck of the Golden State limited on the Rock Island at Topeka were under way. The state also took part in the investigation of a wreck at Burton Saturday.

Disorders spread to the east when the homes of two Baltimore and Ohio employees who refused to join the strike were bombed at New Castle, Pa. A striker was shot at New Castle.

Two workmen for the Missouri Pacific at Monroe, Louisiana, were fired upon and wounded. A former employee was arrested, charged with the shooting.

Strikers Seek To Preserve Order
In most places where appeals for troops were made, the strikers said all possible efforts would be made to preserve order, and they denounced the call for troops.

At Knoxville, Tennessee, a policeman and a negro striker exchanged thirty shots in a running pistol fight, which resulted in no casualties.

Special details of police were assigned to railroad shop and yard districts in Chicago, Denver, New York and other cities throughout the country.

Blame Rail Board
In New York strikers explained their position in an "open letter to commuters on the Erie," placing the responsibility upon the United States Railway Labor Board.

Circulars addressed "To the Shopmen, Maintenance of Way Men, Clerks and Others Affected by the Wage Reductions," urging defiance of the courts and the armed forces of the United States, were reported to have been found on the doorsteps of many railroad workers in New York. Union leaders said the circular would at once be turned over to federal authorities.

Communists Trying For Violence
The circulars were said to have been signed by J. Davis, executive secretary, Central executive committee of the Communist party of America.

E. H. Fitzgerald, president of the railway clerks, had a conference arranged today with the railroad labor board over issues upon which hinged a potential strike of clerks.

At Wilkesbarre, Pa., William B. Roberts, vice president of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, announced a meeting Wednesday of twenty-two district chairmen representing 28 railroads in the east on the question of wage cuts by the labor board.

To Attempt To Run The Street Cars

RUFFALO, N. Y., July 10.—This city, which for nine days has depended upon jitney buses for transportation, today witnessed an attempt by the International Railway Company to restore limited service on its Main street line.

At six a. m. the first of four cars armored in thick wire mesh, left the Cold Spring barns of the company. Two motorcycle policemen acted as advance guard for the car and four policemen armed with sawed-off shotguns followed it in an automobile. More than 200 other policemen were stationed along the 2 1/2 mile route.

Several hundred strikers stationed as pickets around the barns watched the progress of the cars, one of which was derailed a block from the barns. A crowd of strikers and sympathizers surrounded the car and jeered the workmen while they were getting it back on the rails. Some stones were thrown. One arrest was made.

An hour later the cars, surrounded by policemen in automobiles and on motorcycles again were sent down Main street. No passengers were carried. It had been reported and not denied that 250 motormen and conductors from the Mitten lines in Philadelphia have come to Buffalo as volunteers to run the cars. The local company is controlled by the Mitten interests.

Father Gloeckner Talks To Shopmen

Shopmen who are out in Russell, Ky., held a mass meeting in Ironton Saturday and it was addressed by Father Gloeckner, formerly of this city.

He gave the men a splendid talk and told them of the attitude of the Catholic church toward labor. He expressed the belief that the Catholic guilds of the sixteenth century were the real forerunners of labor unions. He advised the men to win the public sympathy and approval as any victory without the approval of the public would be at best temporary or transient. The speaker declared he wanted the unions to be preserved with safe, sane and conservative leadership, as they are conservators of our nation. "It will be a sad day for this nation when our laboring men are led by irresponsible radicals," said Father Gloeckner. He feels that the men benignly directed are the saviors of the nation. The speaker assured the men of his personal sympathy and prayers.

At his conclusion, Mr. Gordon, Mr. Kludom and Mr. Carmon, all business men of Russell, spoke briefly and all the talks were enjoyed.

Squire Explains
Squire George Morgan stated Monday that the reason he fined Otto Capper of Rushtown $1,000 for having moonshine in his possession was due to the fact, he says, that Capper was at the head of a whiskey-making ring in that vicinity. "He hired a lot of men who would not have engaged in the illicit traffic had he not induced them to," Squire Morgan said Monday.

Girls! Face Powders
May Make You Attractive

But Be Careful How You Apply Them—Above All Be Sure To Use the Right Shade.

The secret of applying powder correctly is to use the right foundation cream. Howard's Butter Milk Cream, obtainable at all first-class drug and toilet goods counters, makes a perfect base for powder. Just a slight trace on your skin and well rubbed in before applying the powder, is all that is necessary. This wonderful cream actually vanishes from sight and the most heat-tolerant atmosphere will not produce the slightest shininess or greasiness of the skin.

A good face powder, using the color best suited to your complexion, is an aid to beauty, but be sure that the powder is pure. Howard's Butter Milk Cream Beauty Powder (Flesh, White and Brunette) contain true buttermilk that protects the complexion against exposure and removes that disagreeable shine which so often makes one of the best complexions look vulgar. If you cannot obtain it, send 10 cents (either or stamps) for generous trial package of both Cream and Soap. Howard Bros., Co., Buffalo, N. Y. — Advertisement.

hot weather discomforts

☞ Nobody likes to go without ice during the hot weather.

☞ And we most certainly don't want to see any of our customers suffer this summer.

☞ So we ask consideration—today—of this big fact:

☞ Service depends as much upon you as it does upon us.

☞ If you will meet us a reasonable half way by taking those small daily precautions which save the driver so much time, the sum total will be big savings in service all around.

☞ One customer delays the driver one minute. Sixty such delays mean an hour's service lost; an hour more of waiting by everyone in your neighborhood.

THE MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, July 10.—The week on the stock exchange began with irregular extensions to last Saturday's general reaction. Bulls were under market pressure reflecting strike conditions. Oils, chemicals and copper also lost ground. Early quotations showed losses of 1 to almost 2 points for Atchafalaya, Great Northern preferred, Royal Dutch and Davison Chemical, Lake Erie and Western advanced 1½ points on advices from Washington that application had been made by the "Nickel Plate" road to acquire control of that property. Foreign exchange, including German marks, were steady. Last week's clearing house statement showing a large actual cash gain was expected to make for easier money conditions in the local market.

Early offerings of stocks were easily absorbed and prices strengthened for a time on the demand for Mexican and Pan-American Petroleum, Standard Oil of California, Studebaker and several of the equipment, food and chain store specialties. This advance was cancelled before noon when fresh selling developed among rails and domestic oils. Atlantic Coast Line, Chesapeake and Ohio, "Nickel Plate" and the preferred shares of the Missouri Pacific, Erie Marquette, Wheeling and Lake Erie and Southern Railway were especially heavy. Motor accessories, secondary steels and copper also lost ground. Call money opened at 1½ per cent.

Trading in the stock market today was small in volume, but the underwriting was fair. Sales approximated $75,000 shares.

The closing was irregular.

Chicago Grain And Provisions

CHICAGO, July 10.—Railroad strike developments attracted more attention today than heretofore among wheat traders and led to early upturns in prices today after an initial slow of weakness. Uncertainty among German financial conditions acted at first as a dominating factor. But Mr. Solters, however, were handicapped by reports of threshing delays in Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas and the market soon rallied. The opening, which varied from 1½ to 1½ off, with September 1.10 to 1.10½ and December 1.12 to 1.13, was followed by a rise to Saturday's finish or well above for all deliveries. The close was unsettled at 1 1/8 to 1 1/4 decline with September 63½ to 64½.

Timely rains where needed made prices easy for corn and oats. After opening unchanged to 2½ lower, September 64 to 64½, the corn market held within about the initial range. Oats started 1½ to 1½ off, September 60½, and later recovered somewhat.

Lower quotations on hogs weak and provisions.

The close was unsettled 1/2 to 1 1/2 higher, with July 1.11½ to 1.11½ and September 1.13½ to 1.13½.

Harding

In outlining to the operators' and miners' representatives his proposal for government arbitration, President Harding said:

"The information has come to me that your conference is deadlocked, or at the best, attempting to agree on plans which will require extended time to work out. I have said heretofore that the government prefers you who are parties to the dispute should settle it among yourselves because you best understand all the problems involved. The government can not settle it for you. It will force no man to work against his free will, it will force no man to employ men against the free exercise of an employer's rights.

"The government will not be partisan, but the government is concerned with coal production sufficient to meet the industrial and transportation requirements of the country and to safeguard a fuel famine when winter comes again and it is desired to have production resumed at once.

"Your government does desire to be helpful. With such a thought, therefore, I submit to you the following proposal:

"Mine workers are to return to work on the scale of wages which expired last March 31 and mines now idle because of strike or suspended operation to resume activities, without interference with activities of mines now working. The 1922 scale to be effective until August 10, 1922.

"A coal commission to be created at once consisting of three members selected by the mine workers, three members selected by the mine operators and five members to be named by the president. All decisions by this commission shall be accepted as final.

"This commission to determine if possible within 30 days from today for the miners on strike a temporary basic wage scale which shall be effective until March 1, 1923. In event that the commission is unable to reach its scale by August 10, it shall have power to direct continued work on 1922 scale until superceding scale is ready.

"The commission shall investigate exhaustively every phase of the coal industry. It shall reveal every cost of production and transportation. The president will ask congress to confer authority for the most thorough investigation and make appropriate recommendations to do such work. The commission shall make recommendations looking to the establishment and maintenance of industrial peace in the coal industry, the elimination of waste due to intermittency and stability and suggest plans for dependable fuel supply.

"I have taken this short cut to a resumption of operations because I believe it to be in the interest of the public welfare. It is that simple form of adjusting disputes which answers the call of good conscience and just civilization.

"When two great forces do not agree there must be a peaceful way to adjustment and such an arbitration opens the way.

"I do not expect reply without due consideration. Please take the proposal to separate conferences. I wish you to appraise the situation, weigh your responsibilities and then answer this proposal as you wish to be appraised by American public opinion. I am speaking first of all for the public interest, but I am likewise mindful of the rights of both workers and operators. You are also an inseparable part of that public interest. With due regard for all concerned, it ought to be easy to find a way to re-quire to be easy to find a way to re-approval of the American public."

Half Hundred In Peril When B. & O. Train Is Derailed

Baggage Car, Smoker And Tender Are Overturned; Engineer Is Slightly Hurt

Lives of fifty passengers in addition to those of the train crew were endangered this morning about 10:30 o'clock when the baggage car and tender of B. & O. passenger train No. 51 from Parkersburg to Portsmouth were derailed in a wreck about three miles east of Seasideville, and a half mile beyond Wallis Station. The wreck was caused by the tender of the engine jumping the track this morning, causing the derailed baggage car, the tender and engine to turn over and then back in another direction, forming a letter "S" when they came to a stop.

None of the passengers was injured outside of a severe shaking up and a good fright. As far as could be learned early this afternoon, engineer Fred Moore was the only one injured. He suffered only a slight cut on the head the result of being thrown about in the cab of his engine.

The scene of the wreck is in front of the J. E. Mault home. At that point the roadbed of the track is only slightly above the level of the surrounding ground.

According to members of the train crew the train was making about 25 miles an hour at the time the tender left the rails. It was estimated that the train traveled about ten car lengths before it came to a stop. Engineer Moore applied the air as soon as the tender jumped the track but the cars rode the rails about ten car lengths before the two cars overturned and the train stopped. During the time the coaches rode the rails the passengers were thrown about in their seats but the train had come to a stop before anyone had a chance to get up and investigate the cause of the jolting of the cars. Only a few men were in the smoker at the time of the wreck and they fortunately were not cut by broken glass and escaped with minor bruises received in being thrown about in the car when it turned over.

Baggageman Crawls Out
Baggageman Holmes was the only person in the other overturned car at the time of the wreck. He crawled out of the car after it fell over on its side. Only a small amount of baggage was carried on this morning's trip.

Conductor F. H. Donalds who was in charge of the train went to a nearby telephone and notified the local office of the B. & O. Market and Third streets, as quickly as possible of the wreck. At this point plans were made to send the N. & W. wrecker and a relief engine and coach to the scene of the wreck so that the passengers could be brought to Portsmouth.

The train crew included Conductor F. H. Donalds, Engineer Fred Moore,

The Woodmen Circle will meet Tuesday evening, in regular session at Davis Hall on Gallia avenue.

Jump From Coach
Fred Brown of Valley street, New Boston, who spent the week-end at Athens, was a passenger on the wrecked train. Brown jumped out of a window of the smoker as the car was turning over. He landed on the bank at the side of the track and suffered a slightly sprained right ankle in jumping. Brown says he was the only one who jumped, the other passengers staying in the coach until it turned over. They then crawled to safety through the windows of the car.

Brown says that the train was making good time when all of a sudden, the car just seemed to jump along. That was when it was riding the ties. This caused the passengers to be thrown from their seats and it was next to impossible for anyone to get up and try to stand in the aisle.

According to Brown, the track was badly damaged about 300 feet and it will take close to 100 feet of rail to repair the track. A large number of ties were splintered and the roadbed torn up.

Brown, who works at the United Tire Company's shop here in the city, was able to work this afternoon.

Jack Dempsey Plans To Warm Up Before Meeting One Harry Wills

And then Dempsey came along in 1920 and kicked him for a row of water buckets in three rounds for $55,000.

Harry Greb, the "Pittsburgh Wild Cat," will be the next opponent, according to the plans.

The melee will be held in Pittsburgh, Harry's home town, about July 22, and will be 10 rounds, "no decision."

Betting Greb Will Stay. The fans of the "Smoky City" are wild over the pugilistic plan to be offered for their digestion, and many are willing to go the limit with bets that Greb will still be in the ring at the end of the 10 rounds.

Jess Willard also is considered as a prospective opponent.

Big Jess, weighing 285 pounds, has gone into heavy training on the Pacific coast with the hope of luring Jack into a return match.

Meanwhile Harry Wills is "Jes' waitin'."

Bill and Jack have mixed it before, in 1918, in two no-decision bouts of 10 and six rounds, respectively.

The bout probably will be held in Philadelphia, July 22—an eight-round affair.

BY BOB DORMAN

NEW YORK, July 10.—Jack Dempsey is not going to risk his title against the "Black Panther" without a little exercise.

Jack has been idle since his match with Carpentier a year ago and feels that he needs a fight or two under his belt before he takes on any such dangerous proposition as Harry Wills promises to be.

Billy Mike is reported to be the first victim.

BROWN

More brown is seen as the season advances, and style authorities say it will be one of the leading colors for fall and winter. Just now brown lace is very smart.

Grebe vs. Loughran

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 10.—Harry Greb, light heavyweight champion, and Tommy Loughran, one of Philadelphia's leading middleweights, meet at the Philadelphia National league ball park tonight in an eight-round no-decision bout. The men are reported in good condition.

Failure to touch a base is the easiest way to create a home-run play. As long as baseball is played players will continue to fail to touch the bases.

If such failure does not prove costly, the omission is soon forgotten. Otherwise the careless player goes down in history in the list of "home-runners."

In all probability the most costly failure to touch a base is charged to Fred Merkle.

Chicago was playing New York. It was the ninth inning, the score was tied, two were out, and runners were on first and third. Merkle, then playing first base for the Giants,

NEWS FAKING

WHEN a man buys a newspaper he pays for the news—he has a right to receive what he pays for, and to feel confident that the news, as printed, is true so far as lies in the power of that paper to secure the facts. When the impression gets abroad that newspapers are engaged in the business of publishing fiction under the guise of fact, the influence of the paper will soon wane.

The public has been the victim on several occasions of bald fakes in the matter of so-called news, put out for no other purpose than to anticipate an event then claim a "news beat" on the item in question. Two successes emboldened the perpetrators and they made two more attempts, both of which resulted in failure.

It is altogether probable that responsible heads of newspapers did not know of the fakes, else they would never have printed them, but some one did—they could not have been perpetrated otherwise. The first great hoax was on the death of Queen Victoria. The announcement of the queen's death was scattered broadcast in this country and printed in otherwise reliable papers nearly six hours before the death actually occurred. However, those sending out the report held to that story, claiming that those attacking it were actuated by jealousy because they were beaten. On the death of Pope Pius X, in 1914, the same thing occurred, though, in this case the pope died two hours after notice of his death was published.

The greatest hoax of the century was the false report of the Armistice, November 7, 1918—four days before the actual signing. This caused the hoaxers a lot of uneasiness, and took a wonderful lot of explaining. Then came the report of the death of Pope Benedict XV. Sent out about 18 hours before the death, it caused profound sorrow to many and when the real truth became known caused a loss of confidence in the papers printing the story.

There is little room for the faker in any line. And the newspapers of the country, in spite of adverse criticism at times, have been surprisingly free from serious errors in news. Above all, they have been careful that the story as printed was as nearly accurate as possible.

MONKEY BUSINESS

THE American consul at Aden, Arabia, reports to the department of commerce that the Abyssinian monkey is in danger of extermination. Dame fashion from her throne in Paris has ordered the use of the black and white fur of these simians for trimmings. Consul Cross says not more than 15,000 or 20,000 skins are obtainable in any one year, if consideration be given to perpetuating the race.

Extinction of the monkey tribe might not be an intolerable deprivation of the human family. Yet a good many people may raise their voices in protest, being moved thereto by sentiments of kinship created by the expositions of the disciples of Darwin. Though his skin were worth half a dollar or so none of us would deliberately consent to the destruction of an ancestor as a matter of sordid trade. True, there has been no positive demonstration that the Abyssinian monkey fathered our race, but we assume he had some guilty participation in the business since William Jennings Bryan is especially scornful of the African species.

So let the Abyssinians go that those who choose may wear a bit of their fur as proof of man's superiority to his ancient stock.

The public's feeling is no longer touched by public squealing.

The anonymous letter to a newspaper receives more contempt than consideration.

Women's clothing manufacturers stick to the motto: "All that the traffic will bear."

The gambler only risks his money; the reckless automobile driver risks his own life and those of others.

There are plenty of sensible ways to dress, but some women will probably always succeed in avoiding them.

Wedding bells thrill a prospective bride's heart, but it is the dinner bell that has the most satisfaction for a man.

No one need worry about the graduate who leaves his diploma at home and starts out to get a job instead of a situation.

Senator McCumber, having been defeated for renomination, should not be expected to overwork himself to get the tariff bill through.

A court decision is to the effect that a wife need not live with her mother-in-law, but that depends, probably, on the kind of mother-in-law.

When His Boy, Warren, Came Home

Warren Harding spent Independence Day with home folks at Marion, Ohio. His father, Dr. G. T. Harding, killed a plump Plymouth Rock pullet for him. The Dr. is proud of his son, who is becoming very well known down at Washington.

JEPHTHAH

GIDEON died. Israel sinned again and God sold them into the hands of the Ammonites. Israel cried to God, confessing their sins and God pitied them. The Ammonites were encamped in Gilead. Israel selected a brave man named Jephthah for their captain. Before the battle he made a vow that if God would give him victory he would give as an offering whatsoever should come out of his house to meet him upon his return home. Jephthah was victorious and went back to his home. His daughter came out to meet him. Jephthah kept his vow and the daughters of Israel mourned.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. G. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 10.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Tappan: Up and away to be trimmed; thence to breakfast with Edgar Selwyn, and came Frederic Arnold Kummer, the fairy writer, and we matched coins, I gaining a shilling or two.

Walking through the Broadway, it was pretty odd to see the silly ladies with their canes and silver head-gear as the manner is, and yet I cannot believe with the young intellectuals that the age has grown too flippant. The same thing was said in the bicycle era.

Home and at my stint while a furious storm flung down poles and bricks in the street. And came Hamish McLaurin and Mistress Almee all drenched but mighty gay withal.

In the evening with my wife, poor wretch, to see the colored players in "Strut Miss Lizzie," droll in spots, and afterward in a horse drawn Victoria up the avenue and about the lake in the park, the moon being high. And so to bed.

They are to build a monument on the lower tip of the island in memory of Stoffel Mighiele. When New York was a tiny village down by Bowling Green, the Dutch Burghers stopped on their way to market and gathered around Stoffel Mighiele.

to hear the news of the day. He was Manhattan's first Town Crier and received two pence for every notice that he cried. He was paid to "cry" three each notice and to keep a book wherein he was to write down faithfully all such things with their marks, the names of persons and the day offering. The old Town Crier has been supplanted by the mechanical bulletin boards around Times Square and Park Row.

A New Yorker on his death bed testifies his worldly treasures to his wife in the following quatrain: All my earthly goods I have in store, To my dear wife I leave forevermore; I freely give, no limit do I fix This is my will, and she my executrix.

Broadway has a new term for the egg or tightwad. He is now known as the canary. The canary is the fellow who takes his friends to an orange drink place, buys and calls loudly for the carriage starter. Around midnight he yawns and suddenly yells, "Let's breeze to Child's and buy up the place."

IF YOU ARE WELL BREED

about with the rush of Niagara. On one side of the street is a sporting goods store. A huge window is decorated to represent a road-side camp. Two wax figures are seated at a table, dressed in khaki. There are kitchen kits, short-handled axes, electric torches draped about the tented entrance. It is the typical magazine illustration of the open road. Because of the heavy traffic conditions the police department had to ask the proprietor of the store to discontinue the display. The crowds blocked the pavement by the hour. One man confessed that he spent his luncheon hour there for a week.

Two ambitious young Italians had an idea that they would give a musically touch to a shoe-shine. One played an accordion and the other was to apply the polish. They started out in a big downtown skyscraper visiting various offices. The building superintendent stopped them. Someone else had paid for the shoe-shining privilege. Now they have established themselves in Bryant Park and the idea is resulting in the briskest patronage among all the park shiners. (Copyright 1922, By The McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)
